Thank You to Our Peer Reviewers

Peer review is a service provided generously, and it is a contribution to which we are deeply indebted.

Without the expectation of public accolades or remuneration, reviewers give their expertise in the evaluation of potential articles, help cull the best papers for publication, and assist authors and investigators in putting their best work forward. Maintaining high quality in the manuscripts we publish depends on peer review and ultimately affects the quality of patient care that clinicians provide. Peer review is a substantial responsibility and a generous gift to our field. With all of the competing demands on our peer reviewers' time, they have chosen to give both their time and expertise to this endeavor. We are grateful.

In the first issue of 2019, we are pleased to honor our reviewers of the past year, especially the Circle of Honor reviewers, which are those who have done the most reviews for JCP during this time. Our peer reviewers comprise the community of experts behind the journal's public-facing view, helping determine whether manuscripts uphold the quality and integrity of and "fit" with JCP's mission, for which we strive.

We hope that in 2019 we have the opportunity to work with many of you and that those of you with years of expertise and experience will mentor junior colleagues in the science and art of peer review.
